

Dr. Ali Salehi was born in Tehran, Iran. He attended Bahar-e-No elementary school and Alborz high school. He obtained his medical degree from Shaheed Beheshti (National) University of Medical Sciences, Tehran Iran in 1994. Dr. Salehi completed an anesthesiology residency at Temple University, Philadelphia PA and a cardiothoracic fellowship program at Cleveland Clinic, Cleveland OH. He is Board certified by the American Society of Anesthesiologists (ASA) and The National Board of Echocardiography (NBE). He is currently a member of the department of Anesthesiology and Perioperative Medicine at David Geffen School of Medicine at UCLA and holds the rank of Clinical Professor of Anesthesiology. He is also a fellow at the American society of anesthesiologists. He has been an invited editor for the Journal of Cardiovascular Anesthesia and has published several articles including “Echocardiography Improves Resident Assessment of Left Ventricular Systolic Function” in the J. of Education in Perioperative medicine.