

Mohammad Hassan Partovi is a member of the Board of Directors of the Mehr Foundation. Dr. Partovi has received his BSE, MSE, and Ph.D in Industrial and Operations Engineering, all from The University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. His professional background includes research, development, and system engineering on Telecommunication Networks Architecture, Design, and operations. His career path includes Technical work and/or management at Bell Communications Research (Telcordia today), AT&T, Teleglobe, Dish Networks, and most recently, technical consulting for the U.S. National Weather Service. Dr. Partovi has participated in several conferences on Operations Research, Telecommunications Networks, and Video Distribution over his career, where he has published some of his work.